Time to Celebrate!

The time is just around the corner when College Admissions acceptances or rejections will be released.

Dear Parents and Students,

It's Time to Celebrate. Not just the acceptances, but to:

CELEBRATE EVERY REJECTION

The College application process is currently designed to have more rejections than acceptances. Acceptance rates of 20%, 10%, 8%, 4%, mean that the majority of applicants will get rejected.

Knowing that acceptance rates are low, we try, give it our best, become a better person, rise to the occasion, and complete the application process. What happens after that, is not necessarily in our hands.

While we usually set up an acceptance celebration, we are not usually wired to set up a rejection celebration. We encourage you to celebrate every rejection, whether that means going out for ice cream, or a coffee, or dinner, or doing a special activity together, please celebrate every rejection.

- It's a celebration of taking the effort and trying, even though the odds are stacked against us.
- It's a celebration of resilience.
- It's a celebration of building character.
- It's a celebration of learning from failure and moving on.
